Thanks to its collective emulation, Toulouse Capitole University conducts high quality scientific research with national, European and industrial funding. Numerous visitors and visiting professors are welcomed each year to promote the development of disciplinary, interdisciplinary, inter-science and international knowledge. The latest proof of this dynamic is the creation of the International Research for Society Institute (IRSI) at Toulouse Capitole University. This quality research is intended to be a beacon for the socio-economic world.

Paying a role in local communities & on-campus

Toulouse Capitole University evolves with the support of its alumni and partners. To further strengthen these links, a partnership foundation is being created.

Toulouse Capitole University is one of the cornerstones of the region, also because of its emblematic building. It is one of the few French universities to have benefited from the devolution of its real estate.

It offers everyone an exceptional living environment in Toulouse, Montauban and Rodez, combining history and modernity: renowned amphitheatres, emblematic libraries, gardens and cloister, connected classrooms, gymnasiums in the city center.
